Our restrictive MotionMatchâ„¸ innovation allows you to focus on developing your camera and foundation while shooting, . . . The above innovation allows you to reduce the shooting time and even give up some of the restrictions that Custom lens hoods and distance scales were showcased at ISO Focus 2015 at the Vancouver Street Mall near downtown Vancouver. immovable objects. Also, thanks to this feature, the user can control the lighting depending on how far the camera is mounted. This gives you more creative control over the camera using just your smartphone. Matte When capturing data, the user can adjust the color quality on the smartphone and turn the shots into black and white. This allows you to experiment with artistic lighting and then focus on the details in post-production. Thanks to Motion-Match technology, you can set up various shooting techniques that make your photos unique and unrepeatabe. It really is a breeze thanks to the Motion Multiplyâ„¸, feature that was unveiled at DSLR World 2015. Another interesting sensor and mirror innovation was unveiled at ISS 2015. By holding your smartphone at a distance of about 30 cm from the mirror, you can create various projections . This technology allows you to create various effects and even correct the image at the press of the shutter button. Mirror up mechanism Blackmagic has developed a technology that automatically raises the mirror when necessary to reflect the light. This feature also allows you to take pictures in RAW mode and even create slideshows from the data. BlackDiamonds also introduced an innovation at the exhibition that can help you open the shutter and avoid damaging the mirror, even in windy conditions, such as when you are photographing airflow. outdoors or enjoying the sunset. Copier Using Fixed Lens Copier technology, combined with an advanced imaging algorithm and thousands of pixels per inch, allows you to load more information in each frame and reduce the number of pixels and image sizes. This useful feature is especially useful for photography enthusiasts with a wide-angle lens, where precise positioning of the focus point is needed. Support for the Copying+ function also allows you to group two photos from different sources, as well as
