"English – Romanian Dictionary" is a program that can be useful in many circumstances. It enables you to look up words in the Romanian or English language. There is also a language tool that switches between Romanian and English. You can browse all the words included in the dictionary, and it also has a language tool. With this program, English – Romanian Dictionary, you can look up words in both languages. When you choose English, you can select from the Romanian dictionary and the other way around. The dictionary allows you to choose between one-word translations and shorter ones. You can also choose from different accents and tone. You can define a tone for each word as well. Also included in the dictionary are audio pronunciations and translations. English – Romanian Dictionary highlights all the words you search. If you need to look up words by typing the last letter of them (for example: you know that the word "win" has an accent at the end, then you just type in "win" and the program highlights it for you). You can choose the accents you want to highlight and to enable that option in the dictionary. The program also has a custom dictionary. You can add words or define a new word, and then when you type the word, the program will highlight the meaning. There is a shortcut button where you can search a word and go directly to its translation. You can define a shortcut key on the program as well. You can add your own shortcuts to the program. There is a custom dictionary where you can add new words and words in the dictionary. English – Romanian Dictionary has a menu bar where you can change settings. You can toggle between the dictionary and the language tool and you can hide the menubar. You can also hide the keyboard so that you do not see a keyboard when you start typing a word. You can edit the program and the dictionary directly from within the interface. You can also save the program and the dictionary.
