Photo manipulation software is often used to create an effect of fuzziness in an image, blurring an object to create an interest point, or increasing the tonal contrast. Photo editing software is usually used to change colors and lighten or darken an image. Software like PicMonkey and Pixlr-o-matic, which both enable customization in color, are useful for web layouts and online use. For personal use, you can also use free programs like Paint Shop Pro, Microsoft Paint, and GIMP. A final image, which is the product of your work, is produced when you convert the RAW file to a format that can be saved to a CD, memory stick, or hard drive. Adding slideshows A slideshow is a computer-generated video that uses still images, with narration by a human voice. These animations are typically used as a way of sharing a collection of photos on a computer. Slideshows add dramatic flair to an otherwise mundane task. Are you just going to snap a few photos or a video of your child on her birthday or your family at a vacation destination? Editing your shots into a slideshow is quick, easy, and fun, and it gets everyone involved. Shooting a slideshow Choosing a program The software you use to make a slideshow depends largely on what kinds of frames you want to use and whether you want narration. A program that's a good general-purpose slideshow program is Apple's iMovie. You'll find more on iMovie in Chapter 14. The software you use to create a slideshow depends largely on what kinds of frames you want to use and whether you want narration. The most common kind of slideshow is a sequence of photos that are displayed in a time-ordered format that's accompanied by a voiceover. To make a slideshow, you need to create the frames, with the files stored on your computer. Then you can add text to each frame for narration. Choosing a Program Although you can use Apple's iMovie, the point-and-shoot camera programs that ship with your camera make creating a slideshow easy. Here are some of the most popular programs for creating slideshows: AVI video editors: The most well-known of these are iMovie and MediaPro. If your camera, like a Nikon D5100, shoots in HD, you can use iMovie. You can see the completed

Q: How to display youtube video pause/stop button for the first time only? how to display youtube video pause/stop button for the first time only when the user first visit the video page? For example if the user open the first time this page then this stop/pause button is not display but if the user refresh/redirect to video page the stop/pause button display on the web page. I have try this by using noscript tag in the head section but it don't work : #player-container {display:none;} A: You can do this by setting the flag "Allow pages to control when video is played" to "no". This means that video will not start when the video element is first defined. Instead, you must explicitly call Javascript(JavaScript) after loading the video element in order to play/pause it or to show/hide the controls. It works for Firefox, Chrome and IE. There is a video on Youtube discussing the issue. There are many people that believe that the stock market is a good place to invest for everyone, and I mean a truly good place for everyone. It's an incredible place to invest if you want to make a lot of money. It's also a place where most can afford to invest and not suffer the consequences of losing a large amount of money. But for others, the risks of investing are simply too great. Other than these unfortunate people, the stock market is one of the best places to invest. It's easier to invest in the stock market than any other type of investment. Almost anyone can invest in the stock market; you don't need a business degree or any previous experience. The only reason most people don't invest is they are worried about losing money. The stock market is not without its risks, but if you invest carefully, you can avoid these risks. Be sure to do your research and make sure you understand the risks before you invest your money. Learn more about the risks and the different types of investment strategies, such as stocks, bonds, or a combination of the two. Don't be scared of a little research, and you will succeed in your investing. Investing in stocks is for you if you want to invest in the stock market and begin your

The Dodge and Burn tools allow you to lighten and darken an area of an image using the Dodge and Burn lights. The Dodge tool works like the Fill tool, but with less of an effect. The Burn tool works like the Colorize tool or the Clone Stamp, in which you copy pixels from one area of an image and paste them into another area. The Pen tool is used to make artistic effects or corrections. The Pen tool has a great number of options. You can make paint strokes, fill, stroke, or hatch. You can also create custom brushes using the Pencil tool. The Smart Brush tool automatically recognizes the size, direction, and type of stroke you are using. It can also merge brush strokes together into one image. The selection box and the dimensions of an image are shown in the Properties panel. The Smudge tool can be used to brush in or brush out, depending on the amount of pressure you use. Some people call the Smudge tool "the paint tool". The Magic Wand tool can be used to select an area of an image. It has settings to select an exact area based on color, its size, or gradient. The Magic Wand tool also has a smoothness setting that controls the area of your selection. The Lasso tool, a famous Photoshop tool, is used to select an area that you want to make an adjustment to. Use the Selection window to set the selection, then adjust the options in the options bar. The Gradient tool is used to apply gradients of colors or textures to the entire image or to specific areas. It is useful when you want to create subtle or dramatic changes in appearance to an image. The Lens Blur tool is used to add a soft blur to the image. It can be used to soften, blur, and sharpen images. The Lens Blur tool can also be used to soften or sharpen the background of an image or to alter perspective. The Gradient Fill tool is used to fill an image with a gradient. You can create a gradient with any shape, such as a circle, ellipse, or rectangle. You can create a tool preset using the preferences settings. The tool preferences settings will then always appear when you create a new tool. You can also customize certain settings. For instance, you can change the brush size, amount of drag, or convert the brush to a pen or paintbrush. The Clone Stamp tool allows you to copy pixels from one area of
