The regulation of plasminogen activator (PA) activity was studied in primary culture of astrocytes derived from rat brain. Tissue-type PA (t-PA) activity was present as a single molecular species, with a Mr of approximately 80,000. t-PA and plasminogen activator inhibitor (PAI)-1 activities were bound with 125I-t-PA in astrocytes. Uptake of the radiolabel was blocked by excess t-PA and PAI-1. The half-life of radiolabeled t-PA was increased at 4 degrees C and decreased at 37 degrees C. When 125I-t-PA was incubated in astrocytes at 4 degrees C, 37 degrees C, or at pH 3, little was degraded. At pH 5, degradation of t-PA was blocked. When cells were incubated at 4 degrees C in the presence of excess t-PA, excess PAI-1, or were incubated at 37 degrees C in the absence of added t-PA, t-PA activity decreased. These findings demonstrate that astrocytes have the capacity to degrade and process t-PA. In addition, the rapid uptake of t-PA and the ability to degrade it suggests that t-PA released by a glial fibrillary acidic protein-plasmin pathway from brain is endocytosed by astrocytes and that this may be a major source of t-PA within the brain. Brief Amputation of the Tibial Nail Improves Outcomes in Patients with Periprosthetic Tibial Osteomyelitis. A retrospective cohort study. The aim of this study was to compare treatment outcomes in patients with a periprosthetic tibial osteomyelitis (OM) requiring revision of a tibial intramedullary nail to an above-the-

I'm starting to use Tensorflow 2.0 with the keras backend and am wondering what the difference is between tf.function and keras.function.model_to_function. They seem very similar. A: tf.function is a high-level API that wraps tf.keras.backend.function() as a layer that: Provides automatic differentiation for most user-defined functions as if they were Keras operators Has more convenient high-level APIs Supports partial inputs if necessary keras.function.model_to_function() is an explicit call to a Keras backend function. tf.keras.backend.function() and keras.function.model_to_function() can do the same things, but provide different APIs. Alterations in the T cell receptor V beta repertoire of T cell clones from the spleens of NZB mice. Previous studies have shown that NZB and MRL mice develop increased numbers of T cells with the phenotype defined as CD4-CD8- T (double negative, DN) in the spleens of diseased animals. NZB (B10.S x NZW) F1 mice developed nephritis early in life and were shown to have high levels of IgM and IgG1 anti-dsDNA autoantibodies. The T cells with the DN phenotype co-expressed the V beta 8 gene of the T cell receptor (TCR). In this paper we provide further evidence that the DN T cells are TCR alpha beta + V beta 8 T cells. DN T cell clones (T cells expanded from bulk splenocytes) were selected by flow cytometric sorting for V beta 8 expression. Of the 10 clones that could be grown at least three times, 7 were V beta 8.1-8.2+ DN. Only two of the ten DN T cell clones showed evidence of cytolytic activity; this activity did not correlate with either the V beta gene expression or the level 3e33713323
