FIFA 22 HyperMotion Technology is built on the same core principles behind Pro-Controller, and the game is now playable on all platforms, with all players getting touch-specific controls. FIFA 22 builds on the platform-agnostic nature of previous versions, and uses the team and individual player data to layer the experience for each player and for each touch, be that on foot, in the air or on the goal line. Cohen: On the touch line, the player will actually have the ball on their fingertip. Player movement on the ball will also be more accurate, as when players run with the ball, their control will follow the movement of the ball. FIFA 22 is playable in four ways: standard controls, Classic Controller support, Pro Controller support and DualShock 4 (PS4) support. All controls are touch-based. You can change between them via the D-Pad. Cohen: The big news is that every player is touching the ball, it's not a one-touch situation. Obviously we need to confirm but it looks like most of the time players will be touching the ball if you want to control them. FIFA 22 will also have dynamic weather, which enhances the atmosphere of the games and has a strong correlation with pitch conditions. The weather changes in real-time and has a massive impact on gameplay. There's no rain just yet, but there will be in-game snow. According to Scott Johnston, producer at Energized Productions, "there are a number of weather phenomena that you can experience but the main big change from year to year that we're playing with is rain. Some years there's rain, sometimes there's not. We're not going to have this year-round rain like there is in real life, but we're putting in some rain in the game and we're going to have a couple of instances of snow. It's all very experimental." A new Player Impact Engine will give more interactive physics to high-impact situations. The aforementioned touch-based control also means that players will react in a more lifelike way. Cohen: There are going to be situations where you need to check your knee to make sure your leg's not hurt. It's going to react to that, so there's going to be more checking and checking. We'll also be able to make sure that the player has the ball and the ball is on their foot.

What's new in Fifa 22:

- FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion Technology”, which uses motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay. Simply put, the player motion element found on FIFA 17 is even more robust and more precise now.
- Dedicated Team Styles - Take on your favorite FIFA team in a new experience that shows personality and emotion, and allows them to interact with the environment. You have the choice of playing in authentic stadium colors or create your own characterful styles. Enjoy your favorite teams in a special new way in FIFA 22.
- Matchday Atmosphere - FIFA 22 introduces Matchday Atmosphere, a new feature that allows you to experience the atmosphere at ground-level, providing a new dimension for you to understand and enjoy the game in a whole new way.
- Unlocked! Contender Mode - From that purpose built Next Gen Player and Draft Scout to customizable stadium elements that you can place anywhere on the field, to hidden modes the players will never know exist, Ultimate Team will continue to evolve to be more fun than ever.
- Player Contracts - Contracts provide you with a new method for managing your player’s place in the team and offering beneficial rewards, including improved player attributes.
- Particular Attribute Bonus - Attribute bonuses now affect player Attributes, meaning there are three ‘aspects’ and no longer just one. With the limitations of Smart Pitches and Steep Trenches once again removed, there are six more potential bonuses to ensure you can customize your squad in even more ways.
- Faster Cars and Bikes - New and more authentic technical reactions mean that cars and bikes deal with the environment more naturally, altering their physics at the smallest changes to the surface. As a result, victories are achieved with less player inputs, and the spectacle of the game is even more authentic than ever.
- Ball Physics - FIFA has always been better on the pitch, because balls on this side of the sport are physics. FIFA 22 promises to improve ball physics even further - and though the new technology brings new challenges, it also makes games unpredictable for opposing teams, so the challenge of mastering the game is never easier.
