Washington (CNN) The number of sexual assault allegations involving Supreme Court nominee Brett Kavanaugh surged to 13 on Wednesday after the New Yorker magazine published more than 30 accusations against the judge in what is one of the most serious and politically charged nomination in recent history. Sen. Jeff Flake, an Arizona Republican who has been openly critical of Kavanaugh's confirmation and who has not revealed how he will vote on Kavanaugh, said the New Yorker article was "troubling" and "will require a renewal of our focus" on Kavanaugh's background and temperament. "I have at least 13 minutes of my time left, and I will need to decide whether or not to cast my vote with my colleagues," Flake told CNN's Wolf Blitzer Thursday morning. I've tried to do that by writing some C code that calls jfs2Init directly with the necessary params. It works fine, but I'm not sure whether it's a good/safe solution or not. Is this even possible? What is the right way to do it? Note: The reason I need to read-only is because I need to read/write some fields in the "
